

energy measures

fact file

26

Heat Recovery

The Fact File has been designed to help managers understand 'heat recovery' technology and its important role in reducing energy consumption and costs in the hospitality sector. A growing area of heat recovery in the hospitality industry is Combined Heat and Power (CHP). A CHP unit generates electricity on-site, often using a gas-fired generator. It saves energy and money by making the engine's heat, which would normally be wasted, available as hot water or steam.